

WORK IN DENMARK

Live and work in Denmark

Expat stories

Interviews with expats who tell about their experiences of working and living in Denmark.

Welfare in Denmark

Read about the Danish welfare society, and how our school- and healthcare systems work.

The uniqueness of Denmark

Learn how to say "rye bread" in Danish, and find interesting attractions in the country.

Want to work in Denmark?

Every year, many foreigners come to Denmark to live and work, both within highly qualified positions and skilled labour.

This newspaper is for anyone who is considering relocating to Denmark to apply for a job and develop their professional expertise. We hope that it provides the information you need to find out whether Denmark is the right place for you.

Many are attracted by the opportunity to combine a professional career with comfortable living conditions and family-friendly working hours. In order to meet the future need for qualified labour, Denmark wants to attract more talented people from abroad.

That is why many Danish private and public companies are keen to recruit foreign workers. They make great efforts to ensure that their international employees settle well into their lives in Denmark.

Workindenmark is the Danish Ministry of Employment's official unit for international recruitment. We facilitate contact between Danish companies and international candidates and communicate our knowledge and experience to all interested parties.

At workindenmark.dk, you can read more about job opportunities, the Danish labour market, find help for your CV and much more.

About Workindenmark

Our aim is to make it easier for private and public companies to find the employees they need – and make sure that both parties benefit from the match.

Among the happiest countries

The Danes live comfortable and safe lives

In several surveys, the Danes rank as one of the people with the highest life satisfaction in the world. But why are the Danes happier than other nationalities?

Christian Bjørnskov, a Danish researcher who has looked into the criteria of life satisfaction, ventures one explanation: The Danes place great trust in their fellow citizens.

"In general, the Danes don't need to fear corruption or violence", he says. "If you lose your wallet in Copenhagen you're very likely to get it back.

We live in a safe society, we trust our fellow citizens, and we don't have the kind of worries that other nationalities have to deal with on a daily basis."

The Danes have a high life satisfaction score

The OECD Better Life Index from 2024 measures individual wellbeing by asking respondents: "how people evaluate their life as a whole from 1-10" Here, Denmark scores a 7,5, which is much higher than the OECD average of 6,7.

Also in "social inequality", Denmark has a great ranking. Denmark has a score of 1,02, and a score of 1 means that there are equal conditions regardless of economic or social status.

Denmark in short

Name: Denmark
(the Kingdom of Denmark includes Greenland and the Faroe Islands)

Area: 42.924 km²
(Entire kingdom 2.210.579 km²)

Population: 6 mill (2025)

Capital: Copenhagen (1.3 mill)

Major cities: Aarhus 301.000.
Odense 185.000. Aalborg 122.000
(2025)

Language: Danish, but English and German are widely spoken

Literacy: 99%

Government: Parliamentary democracy

Currency: DKK - Danish Krone

- Denmark entered EU (then called the EEC) in 1973
- Denmark is one of the oldest monarchies in the world
- Wind and solar power supplies 50% of Denmark's energy
- 406 islands of which 70 are populated
- 7.300 km coastline
- 12.000 km bike lanes
- Flattest hierarchy in the world
- Official website: denmark.dk (in English)

The Danish lifestyle is characterized by a sustainable mindset. The bicycle culture is embraced by many Danes, from students to politicians as people often favour this type of transportation. Besides being convenient, it also promotes an environmentally friendly and healthy way of living.

This is also reflected in Danish environmental policies, where the primary focus is on green solutions such as renewable energy, recycling, and water management. 80% of Danish energy consumption comes from bio-, wind-, solar- and geothermal energy.

Not only do the green initiatives help our planet, they are also entangled in our streets and cities through modern Danish architecture, which has become more innovative and sustainable in recent years. You will see many green areas in the city that combine nature with the city life and create an atmosphere of 'hygge'.

You will quickly become familiar with the word 'hygge' - the Danish expression of pleasure and well-being.

Public and private healthcare

In Denmark, public medical help and hospitalisation are free of charge, but there's a partial charge for dental care

Denmark has an extensive public healthcare system offering free treatments at a local general practitioner, casualty departments and public hospitals.

Once you have your work and residence permit, you will need to apply for a Civil Registration number (CPR number) and a health insurance card to get access to free healthcare for yourself and your family.

The health insurance card 'sundhedskort' is yellow and acts as your public health insurance certificate, so you need to produce it to receive treatment.

At your local Citizens' Service Centre 'Borgerservice' you can get a doctor assigned, whose name and address will be shown on your yellow health insurance card.

When you or a member of your family needs to see the doctor, you simply call the doctor's office and make an appointment. Dental treatment is not free in Denmark, but it is subsidised. Therefore, you pay a partial charge following each treatment.

Denmark also has a number of private hospitals and health clinics where you or your employer pay for treatment. Many workplaces provide employees with additional private health insurance that offers faster access to some forms of treatment.

Whether you choose public or private treatment, the quality of medical treatment in Denmark is generally very high.

Hans Eguia

- General Practitioner
- Germany

Why did you choose Denmark as your career destination?

It was easy after checking other possibilities, I was in Germany, England and Spain; everywhere the chances were more or less the same. In Denmark, they offered me something extra which help me decide: the family time and the care/education for our just born children.

How did you find your current job?

I read an offer in a website, I am not completely sure if it was in EURES or the Spanish medical council but what I am sure is that it was from workindenmark.dk

Was it difficult or easy to land a job in Denmark?

Fortunately, it was quite easy, due to the GP deficit in Denmark. The region of Southern Denmark helped me a lot also.

What was the most surprising in the job search in Denmark?

Many things surprised me positively, for example: the help of the patients showing me with their fingers that it was the throat that it was hurting. The experienced nurses, they are very skilled and can manage a patient with pneumonia, hypertension, diabetes; and lastly that the patients were not upset when I was not prescribing antibiotics.

What is the biggest difference you have experienced by working in Denmark?

The rational use of medicaments, the regular work which allows to prepare a schedule or study something without problems, the number of patients per day comparing to Spain.

What do you think was the factor that has given you a success in landing on a job in Denmark?

The language and medical ambient preparation given by the region, learning Danish in a hospital with teachers accustomed to doctors and other teachers that also are nurses was a great plus.

What are your tips to your fellow job searchers?

I have already some friends interested in working here, but most of them say the same: "we are worried/afraid of moving/relocating out of our country". It is quite obvious that we would be a little bit afraid, but the environment will help you. Everybody is very friendly, your job environment will help you also, you will have the opportunity to fit in your new place with enough family time to let you be calmer. Obviously learning Danish is a plus, it is great to interact with other people and make new friends.

Where and how did you meet your circle of friends?

First in my Danish language course, then in my clinic (job area), in courses meeting other professionals of my area and now parents of our children and neighbours because we finally moved to our dream house.

WORK IN DENMARK

Let us help you find a job in Denmark

Finding a job in Denmark isn't simple, but there are ways to make the search easier

If you want a job in Denmark, it makes sense to gain in-depth insight into how the job market works and get specific help and advice from the government institution Workindenmark.

Workindenmark helps Danish companies recruit qualified international workers and qualified international applicants apply for jobs in Denmark.

Workindenmark.dk is the official Danish website for international recruitment and job seeking. The website includes an extensive job database for vacant positions within your professional field. Danish employers post job adverts on the site when looking for new employees from abroad.

How do I apply?

With more than 3,000 vacant positions regularly, Workindenmark.dk is a good place to gain an overview of jobs for English speakers in Denmark.

At workindenmark.dk you can find video tutorials on how to search for jobs in Denmark.

Watch the video tutorials to enhance your chances of getting a job in Denmark.

Help getting started

Life in Denmark offers a range of help for employees who have recently arrived from abroad and their accompanying families:

- Information about how to find a job for your spouse/partner and on language training etc.
- A single point of access to Danish officialdom – via the scheme International Citizen Service (ICS).

This means that all paperwork and guidance related to settling in Denmark can be dealt with in one place.

- Information on labour market rules for foreign workers and companies in Denmark, including efforts to combat social dumping.

Visit www.lifeindenmark.dk

Dealing with the paperwork

It's a good idea to take care of formalities as soon as possible when you arrive. But don't worry, help is at hand if you need it

There are a lot of practicalities to deal with when you move to Denmark. You need to get a work and residence permit, and you have to register at various local authorities. It is also important to get your taxes, choice of doctor and Danish driver's licence sorted out as soon as possible.

International Citizen Service is a nationwide service for newcomers staying for more than three months. ICS is a coordinating cooperation between all the relevant Danish authorities. At ICS, you can get the necessary paperwork done.

Find your local ICS on www.lifeindenmark.dk

International Citizen Service (ICS) is there to help. ICS facilitates an easier process of contacting Danish authorities for you and your family.

Aljaz Kramberger

- Associate professor, Dr. Ing
- University of Southern Denmark
- Slovenia

Why did you choose Denmark as your career destination?

Denmark is simply the best place to be when it comes to cutting edge technology and advancement within robotics. I had offers from several countries, but chose Denmark because of the work/life balance and the opportunity to advance in my career.

I ended up in Denmark because

6 years ago I finished my Ph.D. and needed a change. At that point, an opportunity was presented to me to join the robotics group at the University of Southern Denmark. The decision was not that hard and before you know it, me and my wife moved to Denmark, since then we never regret the decision we took.

What surprises me most about working in Denmark is

That people are very open minded, helpful and are willing to give you a fair chance to prove yourself professionally and personally. Additionally, you are presented with a lot of opportunities for professional growth and personal wellbeing.

My Danish colleagues are

Prone to be very considered about you being a foreigner, sometimes the language barrier can be a problem, but over time you also adapt to it and you start to understand Danish more and more.

Life in Denmark is

Sometimes difficult because of the distance to your family, relatives, and friends back in the home country. On the other hand, we had the opportunity to meet some incredible people here in Denmark, which makes us feel at home and appreciated.

I would recommend anybody moving to Denmark to Learn the language and to be open minded to the Danish way of living, because it gives you the opportunity to have a happy and balanced life.

Find more expat stories on our website:
www.workindenmark.dk

Residence and Work Permit

Check if you need a residence and work permit to work in Denmark

Nordic citizens do not need a permit to live and work in Denmark. EU/EEA citizens can travel freely to Denmark for work.

Check the rules applying to you via the QR-code below.

If you work in Denmark for less than 3 months, you do not need to apply for an EU residence document, but you will need a tax card. If you work more than 3 months, you have to apply for an EU residence document when you start working. Please find further information at www.newtodenmark.dk.

If you are a non EU/EEA/Swiss citizen, you will need to apply for and obtain a residence and work permit before you start working in Denmark. You are, however, welcome to apply for jobs. Once you have been offered a job, both you and your future Danish employer will have to apply for your work permit. Please note that we highly recommend you read the criteria for obtaining a work permit before you start searching for jobs. Further information is available at www.newtodenmark.dk.

Learn Danish

Most Danes speak English, but it is a good idea to learn Danish if you plan on staying in Denmark

In many Danish companies, you will get along fine without speaking Danish. However, not only settling into a workplace, but also to Danish society is far easier if you make the effort to learn Danish. And if you bring your family, the advice is clear: take a Danish course.

Danish courses are offered by both public and private language schools. Many of the courses on offer are tailored to suit both individuals and businesses.

All self-supporting employees, accompanying partners and students over the age of 18, who have a valid Danish residence permit and a Danish CPR number are entitled to free Danish language courses. A fee deposit may apply, but all Danish courses are free of charge, if completed.

Please contact your local municipal job centre for further information and information on how to sign up.

So to answer the question “is Danish a requirement?” the answer is no, and yes. You can work, live and study in Denmark without learning Danish, within some, but not all, fields. However, if you wish to succeed in the Danish labour market and be part of the Danish society, it is advisable to take part in a Danish language course.

The Danish “flexicurity model”

The Danish labour market is internationally known for its ‘flexicurity model’ – a mix of the terms “flexibility” and “security”

This concept refers to a welfare state model that combines a flexible labour market with social security.

Employers and employees settle most labour market issues, via collective bargaining, rather than by law.

Employees choose a union representative who undertakes local negotiation of wages, and other work conditions with the employer.

In many workplaces, unions play an active role and approximately two out of three employees are members of a trade union.

Unemployment insurance is voluntary. This means that you are not automatically insured against unemployment.

The Danish unemployment insurance is administered by unemployment insurance funds (“a-kasser” in Danish).

As an insured member, you may receive unemployment benefits from the first day of unemployment if you have been in continued employment, and a member of the insurance fund, for at least 12 months.

Alex Espuñes Juberó

- Geologist
- Ramboll, Copenhagen
- Spain

I ended up in Denmark because...

I wanted to live somewhere else in Europe and I got admitted to an MSc in Copenhagen. I got charmed by the city and its people and, after some harsh months of the covid period, I got a job at Ramboll, where I have been gladly working on wind farm projects as a geologist.

What surprises me most about working in Denmark is...

The flexible work schedule, flat hierarchy, and good life-work balance. The fact you can finish work around 16 gives you lots of free time in the evening for meeting friends or hobbies

My Danish colleagues are...

They are very friendly, know lots of bad jokes, don't know the difference between sunny and warm, and love drinking beer. Lots of beer. They are also very professional and relaxed, and we have some regular social events going on, like breakfast on Thursday (Morgenbrød) and Friday bar (Fredagsbar).

Life in Denmark is...

It is quite relaxing, with lots of opportunities for young professionals trying to make a better life for themselves. Winter months can be cold and dark, but nothing some good old vitamin D supplements cannot help with (this is very important, trust me!). Summers are nice and warm(-ish), and it doesn't rain too much, to be honest (and I am from Barcelona!). I recommend joining some group activities or sports to be social as Danes are friendly and have good humor (they are known to be the Spaniards of the North). I personally joined and volunteered, as a board member and VP, to the CBS international choir where I met most of my friends in Copenhagen.

I would recommend anybody moving to Denmark to...

It's always a difficult choice to move abroad, but Denmark is a very good candidate: a very welcoming country to all kinds of professionals, with honest and trustworthy people, and perfect for people who like biking (it's almost all flat!). I'd recommend it to anyone who wants a change of atmosphere and is looking for a more relaxed and balanced life.

Where would you like to live ?

In most parts of Denmark, you can choose between different kinds of accommodation

House or flat? City centre or countryside?

In a small country like Denmark, you are always just a car ride away from one of the main cities, regardless of where you choose to live.

No matter where you live, you are never more than 52 km away from the sea, and an even shorter distance from the nearest woodlands. From most parts of Denmark, the capital city of Copenhagen can be visited as a day-trip.

Many companies provide initial accommodation for international employees when they arrive. This might be temporary accommodation, and possibly not quite to your liking. Therefore, most international employees spend time finding more permanent accommodation that suits their needs.

Read more about relocating at www.lifeindenmark.dk

Childcare and schooling

In Denmark, 90% of children aged 3-5 years attend a day care facility

For children under the age of three, parents can choose nursery (Danish: vuggestue) or family day care (Danish: dagpleje).

A nursery is an institution designed to look after larger groups of small children, while family day care involves only four or five children, looked after by a childminder in his/her home.

Childcare for three to five year-olds takes place in kindergartens. Most Danish kindergartens are public, but you can also find private ones.

All Danish kindergartens have professionally trained staff, but children do not receive pre-school teaching.

Instead, Danish kindergartens simulate children's social, linguistic and democratic skills, primarily through play.

Primary and lower secondary education (age 6 to 16)

The primary and lower secondary education in Denmark is, for the most part, free of charge.

Five in six children attend a publicly funded basic school called "Folkeskolen", which concludes with a final examination, called FSA (in Danish: Folkeskolens afgangsprøve). You can also choose a private school, which is subject to school fees.

Upper secondary education (age 16-19)

After finishing FSA, pupils can choose to attend upper secondary school. In Denmark, the upper secondary education is also free of charge and consists of two types of programmes:

- General education qualifying for access to higher education - the most common being: Studentereksamen (STX), Commercial upper secondary School (HHX) and Technical upper secondary school (HTX)
- Vocational or technical education, qualifying primarily for access to the labour market.

More information concerning the Danish school system and the different programs can be found at www.lifeindenmark.dk

International schools

Denmark has 30 international schools offering primary and lower secondary education. Most of these are private (subject to school fees) and are primarily attended by children with foreign parents who live in Denmark for a shorter, or longer, period of time.

A number of study programmes are offered in English or other foreign languages, and Denmark has 15 international upper secondary schools, primarily offering the international Baccalaureate (IB).

Did you know that ...?

- According to Transparency International 2024, Denmark, is the least corrupt country in the world
- Denmark has one of the lowest crime rates in the world
- Denmark has the oldest flag in the world. According to legend, "Dannebrog" fell down from the sky during a battle in Estonia on June 15, 1219
- Denmark stands for clean and renewable energy. 82 % of all energy comes from renewable energy sources
- Denmark consists of 406 islands, but only 70 of them are inhabited
- The Danish alphabet has three additional letters: Æ, Ø and Å
- Year after year, Denmark is ranked among the happiest countries in the world
- Associations are part of the Danish culture. Most Danes are members of different sports clubs, charities, co-ops, scouts, etc. in their free time

Facebook

LinkedIn

Social Media

Remember to follow us on Facebook and LinkedIn. Here, we share updates on working and living in Denmark, new events and interesting info.

Francois Picard

- Specialist, Production & Innovation
- Institute of Technology
- France

Why did you choose Denmark as your career destination?

It is a very classical story. My partner began working in Denmark for her French company at the time. It should have lasted three months and it lasted three years. After a couple of months, we decided to move to Denmark and for me to find a job there.

How did you find your current job?

I found luckily my current job through my professional network in France. I was trying at the time to join my partner who was already working in Odense at the time. And when I began my job search, I received an email from my past Ph.D. supervisor who knew coincidentally a professor at Odense's university. Through the latter, I contacted two of his previous pupils. The first one is today my boss and the second one is a project partner.

Was it difficult or easy to land a job in Denmark?

In my case, it was really easy! In the right spot at the right time. Pure luck. But I know for sure that it is not that easy and that it may take time. Expressing the will to learn Danish is definitely a plus. In any case, one should be prepared to illustrate previous experiences and projects, with a well-documented portfolio for instance.

What surprised you the most about job search in Denmark?

The professional network LinkedIn is widely used in Denmark, which was not the case in my home country, at least at the time. It is common practice today to post on it that one is now actively looking for a job. Generally speaking, lots of aspects in the Danish life are digital and writing to someone is generally more efficient than trying to reach out by phone for instance.

What surprised you the most about Danish workplace culture?

The biggest surprise for me is the balance Danes manage to create between the private and the professional lives. One does not have to justify how she or he manages her or his time. Coming from France where it is "good" practice to stay at work as late as possible, it was definitely a surprise at first to see one colleague leaving work from 15 o'clock because kids needed to be picked up or declining a morning meeting invitation because he was celebrating his daughter's birthday this morning and that he was arriving later this day. Time is definitely more flexible at work here in Denmark and it was a good surprise for me.

What was the main factor that helped you getting a job in Denmark?

It was my network, telling people what I was looking for and where, talking and contacting. I did not take advantage of them, but there are many job fairs in Denmark to support and increase one's network. There are as well many institutions, like Work In Denmark, implementing divers initiatives to help people finding a job in Denmark.

If you could give one tip to others looking for a job in Denmark, what would that be?

Be prepared to illustrate what you did during your previous job experiences. Danes don't know who you are and what you did so be ready to show them that, most of the time in a short time, through a cover letter and a portfolio, or a physical interview.

How did you create a social network in Denmark?

I created my social network through my work and the sports I am practicing and thanks to many initiatives set up by internationals to meet during dedicated social events. And I am today lucky enough to be surrounded by both Internationals and Danes.

Denmark's biggest sports achievements

Even though Denmark is not a big country, we have achieved some impressive results in the world of sports over the years

No matter where in Denmark you live, you are always close to a sports club of your liking. The clubs are normally run by voluntary staff such as parents, siblings etc.

Here, we have listed some of the biggest Danish sporting achievements:

Tom Kristensen, racing driver – Le Mans

Tom Kristensen won the legendary car race Le Mans nine times in his career. Most of his wins were while he was driving for Audi. Tom was appointed Knight of the Order of Dannebrog (The Danish flag) by the Queen of Denmark in 2014.

Michael Laudrup – football

Michael Laudrup is generally recognized as the best Danish footballer of all times. He was part of Barcelona's "dream team", when they won the Spanish league four years in a row before moving to rivals Real Madrid to win the championship with them. In 1999 he was voted the best foreign player in Spain for the past 25 years.

The Women's handball team

In 1997 the Danish "iron ladies" became the first national team ever to hold all three major titles at the same time (European championship, world championship and the Olympic championship). It is also the only national team to ever win three consecutive Olympic titles – 1996, 2000 and 2004.

The men's handball team

The men's national team in handball is currently at its peak. They won the gold medal in the Olympic games in 2016 and 2024 and the world cup in 2019, 2021, 2023 and in 2025. To be fair – Handball was invented in Denmark, and that might be why we are so good at it, and why more than 2.5 million people watched the finale on TV in 2021.

Jonas Vingegaard – cycling

Jonas Vingegaard has won Tour de France twice so far – in 2022 and 2023. In 2021 he came in second following a crash from his then-captain Primož Roglič. Furthermore he came in second in la Vuelta a España in 2023 after a dominant race from his team Jumbo-Visma.

Amalie Dideriksen – Cycling

Amalie won the world championship for juniors in both 2013 and 2014, before coming back as a senior to win it in 2016 and the bronze medal in 2017. She has won Danish championships in 2014, 2015, 2018, 2019 and 2020.

The men's football team

In 1992, the men's football team won the European championship, after not even qualifying. But because of the war in Yugoslavia, Denmark took Yugoslavia's place and went on to win the title as a complete underdog. Denmark beat Germany 2-0 in the final with goals from John Faxe Jensen and Kim Vilfort. On the pitch were players like Brian Laudrup, Peter Schmeichel and Flemming Povlsen.

Caroline Wozniacki – Tennis

The Danish tennis player was the first Scandinavian woman to hold the world's top ranking in women's singles tennis, when she first achieved the top ranking in October 2010. Wozniacki held the top ranking for a combined total of 71 weeks and won 30 WTA titles.

"Guldfireren" (The golden four) – rowing

From 1994 to 2016 the Danish lightweight coxless four – boat won the Olympic games thrice and the World Championship eight times. Furthermore, they won one Olympic silver medal, two Olympic bronze medals, and three second places at the world championships.

Viktor Axelsen – Badminton

In 2022 Viktor Axelsen won his second gold medal at the World Championships. He has also won gold medals at the 2020 and 2024 Olympic Games. Axelsen, who also has a strong following in China, is, in addition to his native Danish, a fluent speaker of both English and Mandarin.

High wages, free welfare...

and high taxes.

Income tax is high in Denmark, as you might have heard

However, this is counter-balanced by higher wages and many free welfare services, services that are often very expensive in other countries.

Denmark is a classic welfare state. Helping your fellow citizens, when they fall ill, grow old or lose their job, is considered a joint responsibility. The same goes for high quality childcare and free education for everyone.

This explains why Danes are among the highest taxed populations. Additionally, most goods include a 25 % VAT (moms in Danish). Cars, petrol, alcohol, sweets and other goods are also taxed in order to limit consumption and raise revenue.

Like the taxes, Danish salary levels are among the highest in the world, and many welfare services that strain household budgets in other countries are either free or state-subsidised in Denmark.

Medical help, hospital treatment, education and elderly care are all free, and day care for children is far cheaper than in other countries. This means that the purchasing power in the Danish capital of Copenhagen is the same as in other major European cities.

Researchers and highly paid employees can get tax reductions

In terms of taxation, foreign researchers and highly paid employees in Danish companies can get favourable terms, including a considerably lower income tax rate, if they are recruited from abroad. However, a set of specific conditions will have to be met, in order to take advantage of this tax scheme.

Read more about the Danish tax system, and conditions for the special tax scheme for foreign researchers and highly paid employees at www.skat.dk/english.

Bring your unemployment benefits to Denmark

If you are an EU/EEA/Swiss citizen, you can actually bring your unemployment benefits to Denmark while looking for a job.

This gives you the opportunity of being in Denmark, experience the people, culture, and climate while you look for a job. This also makes it easier for you to go to job interviews and job fairs in Denmark.

For more information and help, please contact Workindenmark by phone +45 72223300 or write to:
workindenmark@workindenmark.dk

Quiz

Test your knowledge about Denmark

Denmark is a country with a long history and proud traditions within various fields. Test your knowledge about Denmark and Danish achievements here. Find the right answers at the bottom of the page.

1) Hans Christian Andersen is one of the most famous persons to ever come out of Denmark, but which of these is a fairy tale he wrote?

- a. Hansel and Gretel
- b. Cinderella
- c. The princess and the pea

2) The national Danish football team for men has won the European Championship just once - with players like Peter Schmeichel and Brian Laudrup on the team. But when was it?

- a. 1988
- b. 1992
- c. 1996

3) It was actually a Dane, who designed the opera house in Sidney in 1959. But what was his name?

- a. Jørn Utzon
- b. Arne Jacobsen
- c. Henning Larsen

4) The Danish philosopher Søren Kierkegaard is widely accepted as being the first philosopher within which form of philosophy?

- a. Positivism
- b. Rationalism
- c. Existentialism

5) The Great Belt Bridge was built in 1998 and connects the islands of Funen and Zealand. It was the biggest in the world of its kind at the time. How many cars passed the bridge every day in 2024?

- a. 21.000
- b. 36.000
- c. 51.000

Right answers: 1: C, 2: B, 3: A, 4: C, 5: B

Arun Suryanarayanan

- Engineer
- NNE
- Canada

Why did you choose Denmark as your career destination?

My wife is Danish however coming from Canada where we hear a lot of Denmark's work life balance, work culture. The fact that I could venture into the ever growing Pharma sector was also a key motivating factor

How did you find your current job?

WorkinDenmark's website was a key tool that I used for looking up career opportunities, through which I found my current job with NNE (Novo Nordisk Engineering)

Was it difficult or easy to land a job in Denmark?

It is a hard question to answer. There are a lot of jobs however it is important to network, talk to the hiring manager and follow up. If these few basic rules are adhered to, it is easy to land at the least a job interview.

What surprised you the most about job search in Denmark?

Was the number of ever-growing new job openings and the volume of highly skilled applicants that the organizations were looking for. Coming from Canada it was unusual to see Masters being almost considered a pre req and PhD, Post Docs being very common as well.

What surprised you the most about Danish workplace culture?

What surprised me the most in a positive way is the importance given to work life balance and the productivity of fellow colleagues.

What was the main factor that helped you getting a job in Denmark?

The main factor that helped me getting a job was attending the WorkinDenmark-workshop as well as following through on what was communicated about Danish work culture.

If you could give one tip to others looking for a job in Denmark, what would that be?

I highly encourage every applicant to pick up the phone and call the hiring manager before you send in your resume. Your chances almost are quadrupled if you do so.

How did you create a social network in Denmark?

I am currently taking Danish classes as well as joining expat groups to create a social network in Denmark.

Culture & fun

Your bucket list to great Danish attractions

1) Tivoli (Copenhagen)

Situated right by the main station in Copenhagen, you will find Tivoli Gardens. The most visited attraction in Denmark. Tivoli is a theme park; built by Georg Carstensen in 1843. In Tivoli gardens you will find some thrilling rollercoasters and fairy-tale-like rides inspired by Hans Christian Andersen who himself was inspired by the gardens. However, Tivoli is much more than just rides, in December, Tivoli transforms into a beautiful Christmas wonderland, which becomes one of Copenhagen's top attractions during winter.

2) Dyrehavsbakken (Klampenborg)

Dyrehavsbakken or better known as Bakken, is the oldest amusement park in the world. It is located only 10 km north of Copenhagen within the woods of Dyrehaven. It was founded in 1583 and has since been a popular place for everyone. Big neon signs and brands are not allowed, instead, the place shares a mix of colourful wooden structures to honour the historical and unique location.

3) Legoland (Billund)

At Legoland, everybody is a child. You can either explore the entire world made of LEGO, live out your dreams as a gold-finding cowboy or take a ride in one of the many entertaining rollercoasters. You can even stay at the themed Lego castle hotel.

4) Copenhagen Zoo (Copenhagen)

At the Zoo of Copenhagen, you can visit more than 4.000 animals from different continents- all in one place. You can either say hello to the exotic tigers and elephants or walk into the breath-taking sea world of polar bears. You can even enjoy your lunch at the restaurant inside the Pandas' exhibition area.

5) Djurs Sommerland (Nimtofte)

Djurs Sommerland (Summer land of Djurs) is Scandinavia's biggest summerland. It has 60 different rides for all ages and was awarded as Europe's best family theme park with under 1 million guests in 2019. Here, you can explore different, exciting themed areas such as pirate, water, Viking and farm land.

6) Faarup Sommerland (Vendsyssel)

Faarup Sommerland (Sommerland of Faarup) is a theme park in the north western part of Denmark. It has the best rollercoaster in Europe called The Phoenix which reaches a top speed of 95 km/h. They organise many events and have their own hotel at the park.

7) Aquadome in Lalandia (Billund)

Aquadome in Lalandia is the biggest waterpark in Scandinavia. Try the Turbo Racer with a free fall experience that makes it a lightning fast rollercoaster or try the twister that hurls you around in a huge funnel. You can also experience the waves at the wave pool or sit back and relax in the tropical climate with a wellness pack. Aquadome is an adventure for the whole family.

8) Louisiana, Museum of Modern Art (Humblebæk)

Louisiana was founded in 1958 by Knud W. Jensen who wanted to create a museum for modern art. His intentions were to only have Danish art but he changed course after a couple of years, where Louisiana became an international art museum with different renowned works. The museum is beautifully set in the north of Zealand with an incredible view towards the sea from the sculpture park. The Louisiana collection comprises around 4.000 works from 1945 till now.

9) Rundetårn (The round tower in Copenhagen)

The round tower is located in the centre of Copenhagen. The first stone was laid in 1637 and completed 5 years later. It was built under King Christian IV to enable astronomers from the University of Copenhagen to gaze at the stars above the lights of the city. It has an astonishing view of Copenhagen.

10) Marsk Tower (Skærbæk)

Marsk Tower is a double helix-shaped corten steel observation tower, from where you can see almost all of the Wadden Sea National Park. The tower was constructed by the famous architect firm BIG (Bjarke Ingels Group)

11) Den gamle by (The Old Town Museum) (Aarhus)

This museum takes you back in time. You can walk through the town as it looked in Hans Christian Andersen's time with half-timbered buildings, cobbles and horse-drawn carriages. Have a chat with the baker's wife, the farmhand or the kitchen maid. Visit the different exhibitions which will take you all the way up to today's modern society.

12) The Experimentarium (Copenhagen)

Experimentarium is a world class science center, located in Hellerup, just 6 km north of Copenhagen city centre. They believe that you learn the best, when you're having fun. At Experimentarium you learn about science by experimenting, by using your body and by having a great time together. It is science – the Danish way!

Export companies from Denmark

A great way to find your next job in Denmark is by looking into some of the biggest companies in Denmark who all work internationally. You might have the upper hand if you know about language and culture from a certain country.

Do you know these companies?

TERADYNE Robotics

BESTSELLER

WORK IN DENMARK

Lerchesgade 35

5000 Odense C

Phone: +45 72 22 33 00

E-mail: workindenmark@workindenmark.dk

www.workindenmark.dk

Your five first words in Danish

'Hygge'

Cosiness, relaxing, having a good time. Danes love to 'hygge' and use this word a lot.

'Rødgrød med fløde'

Red berry pudding with cream. For non-Danes, the name of this traditional dessert is almost impossible to pronounce ... but the Danes love putting foreigners to the test.

'Rugbrød'

At lunch, many Danes eat rye bread with cold cuts of meat, pickled herring, paté of pig liver and more. Danes have been eating rye bread for more than a thousand years and many, especially older Danes, can't live without it. Some pack it in their suitcases when travelling abroad.

'Du'

The informal 'you'. In Denmark, more or less everyone uses this informal mode of address – even when talking to people they don't know. Hardly anyone use the more formal 'De', even when addressing their boss.

'Julefrokost' (Christmas lunches)

At most workplaces, Christmas lunches (and summer parties) are a regular tradition for all the employees, where everyone eats and parties together. Many families visit each other and eat traditional Danish meals between Christmas and New Years Eve.

